DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-14 have been examined as filed/amended 2/23/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. Claims 11-14 are rejected as the claimed inventions are directed to non-statutory subject matter. As computer software per-se is not considered statutory subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Lehman (6,658,437). [Further, although not cited as the basis of the rejection, please also see Morse (5,561,786).]

As per independent claims 1, 6 and 11-14, as Lehman teaches that memory may be efficiently allocated from containers managing successive binary power of two memory segments where upon a request for memory it will be allocated from the segment at either equal to, or no more than twice as large, and correspondingly when freed, it may be coalesced with any memory remaining unallocated within the same managed memory allocation segment (see column 1 lines 18-55; and column 2-3 lines 51-9); thereby although the claims are recited in other form, all limitations are considered to be clearly implicit in that taught, or correspondingly obvious in combination with that well known to those of ordinary skill in the art, and thereby not patentably distinguishable over the art of record.

As per claims 2-5 and 7-10, dependent on claims 1, 6, or correspondingly dependent claim inclusively; as all limitations are considered to restate that reviewed above albeit in other form, or obvious variant thereof; all claims are correspondingly rejected as not being patentably distinguishable over the prior art of record.
